have for many years patronized "Wil-liam" II, theory, sheemaker, in the baseof 20 South Main street, will be greatly surprised to learn that the quiet massing little cobbler is a woman After a disgelse maintained for a scor woman divulged her identity yester

"Yes, I am a woman," she admitted lest night to a Trioune reporter. 'For twenty years I have worn male attire and for eleven years of that time I have conducted sheemaking shops in Main street of this city. Few if any guessed the secret of my ideality until on an Ashton avenue street car the other night I saw that arteral passengers had in some manner discovered the fact that I am a woman. I then resolved to resume female attire when I again went on the streets.

And true to her newly-formed determination she went early yesterday morning to a number of downown stores and purchased several dresses and the other garments which go with miledy's tollet. "I really enjoyed the long-deferred feminine pleasure of shopping," she said. "Although the salesgirle did took at me rather curiously as I made purchases seidom made by male customers."

Girl Legres Shoemaking.

Girl Learns Shoemaking.

Girl Learns Shoemaking.

Eva McCleerr, as the woman was known before she doffed the feminine name with the garments of the sex, is nearly 60 years old. She was born in Liverpoot and while a young girl learned the trade of shoemaking. She worked at the trade while in England and, coming to America thirty-five years ago, still followed that line of work.

"I worked a number of years in this city as a shoemaker," she said, in reviewing her career. "I worked in the Timod ward and afterward in the Eleventh ward. About twenty years ago, in a spirit of curiosity. I put on men's clothing. I found that I could work so much better at the bench unhampered by my skirts, that I continued the practice. It soon became second nature to me and I discarded female attire altogether."

Mrs. McCleery talks entertainingly of her efforts to live up to her self-imposed role. "I learned to smoke," she said with a shudder, recalling her early struggles to overcome a woman's repugnance to the weed. "I practiced coursening my role and tried to cultivate a taste for manis pursuits and amusements."

Disguise Nearly Perfect.

So well did she learn her part that eighteen years age she secured a position at the state university as instructor in the industrial department and held the position two years without the elightest suspicion of her masquerade being aroused. She then went to Ogden and for five years taught the students of the Dear and Blind institute the shocmaker's trade.

For this long period of time the ways

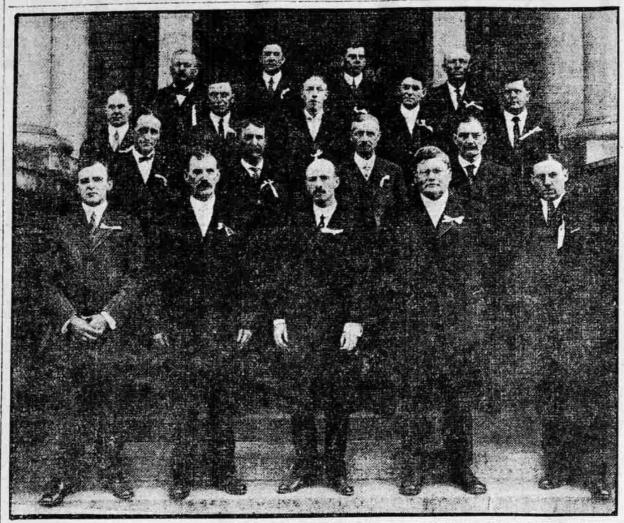

"I continued at this location for six years," said Mrs. McCleery, "and built up a good hustness. I do good work," she added proudly; "I am not afraid to put my work in competition with the hest men-shoemalers in the country."

After six years at her first location, the woman-cobbler moved into the basement of 46 South Main street and spent three years there removing two years ago to her present location.

Good Looking "Man."

Mrs. McCleery makes rather an attractive appearance in men's clothing. Her gray half, worn rather long, is brushed back from a face which has been touched but lightly by the passage of time. He slight and stender figure is perfectly erect and neatly clad in a business suit, and she creates the impression of being what she really is—a business "man" of standing in the community;

Secretary Says They Will Not Support Park Ticket at Election.

BRANSFORD IS FAVORED

Evident That American Candidates Will Be Given Support.

Official denial was made yesterday by the Socialist party to the statement attributed to Murray E. King, a prominent Socialist, and printed in the organ of the federal bunch to the effect that the Socialists would support the Park ticket at the coming election. The de-nial comes in the form of a signed statement issued from the Socialist headenesters.

This statement not only denies that the Park ticket will receive the support of the Socialist ticket, but declares that of the Socialist tickel, but declares that the members of the Socialist party are bitterly opposed to Park and his ticket. As a party, the Socialists will support neither the American nor the Citizens' ticket. As individuals they will vote for Mayor John S. Bransford and a majority of the American ticket. This is made clear in the following statement:

"The Socialists will seen hold a convention at which time the question of which candidate will be supported will be discussed, but I can assure you that neither ticket will be given Socialistic party support, as our platform absolutely forbids such a move.

"The members of the Socialist party are bitterly opposed to Park and his ticket. The record of Park is such that no Socialist or union laborer can yote ticket. The record of Park is such that no Socialist or union laborer can vote for him. Park is colonel of the national guard and a Socialist has no use for the military in any form. He not only voted against the eight-hour law, but worked to defeat the same. His attitude toward union labor has always been against the workers and he is being judged by his past record. "Speaking as an individual member of the party, if the members as individuals should east their vote for either candidate, Bransford is the most worthy. His record during the trouble be-

His record during the trouble be-tween the police and Socialist speakers shows that the city council, of which he is the head, stopped the police from in-terfering with our speakers and they have enjoyed the privilege of speaking or the streets from that time to the on the streets from that time to the The statement attributed to Murra

E. King, who is quoted in the Herald-Republican this morning as saying the Bransford ticket would not receive a single socialistic vote, is not correct. What he did say was that neither ticket would receive the support of the Socialists as a party, which is correct.

"The Socialist party has increased its membership by an honest, straightforward, businesslike manner and do not intend to lose what they have gained by underhanded work of any description. We stand for the princidescription. We stand for the princi-ples of socialism as set down in our national and city platform.

"Henry W. Lawrence will receive the full support of the Socialist party by every Socialist casting his vote for him, but he is the only man on the him, but he is the only man on the

away before the primary to support the Leatherwood ticket because some Americans were given places on the ticket. Now those Americans are back in line. Several appeared at the American head-quarters vesterday. They admitted that they had been mistaken in believing that the federal bunch was capable of giving them anything but the worst of it, and they are now willing to get out and work hard for the American ticket.

There was never any real hard feeling between the two branches of the American selt that they represented the American sentiment of the community and were willing to permit the primary election to be the test. The test proved that the Americans of the city were behind the regular American ticket. The Americans on the federal bunch ticket were knifed by those who named them and received only the compilmentary votes of their American friends. The manner in which these Americans were treated by the federal bunch has convinced them more than ever of the need of the American party and certainly of the necessity of electing the American party ticket at the coming city election.
